3. PORSCHE DESIGN TIMEPIECE

Features:

- Chronograph / Black dial with Arabic numerals
- Titanium case & bezel
- Black caoutchouc with folding buckle
- 44 mm

Porsche Design watches go beyond a mere co-branding exercise and instead carry the design DNA and philosophy of the company's founder, Ferdinand Alexander Porsche. There is no arguing that over its 40+ year history; it has produced some revolutionary, collectible and important watches.

To understand Porsche Design watches, you must, as with so many things, go back to its beginnings. In 1963, the Porsche car company introduced its latest model, the 911, at the Frankfurt Auto Show. The car was the successor to the brand's popular but aging model 356 and featured newer, more minimalist design language, penned by Ferdinand Alexander "Butzi" Porsche, the son of the company's founder. Of course, we don't need to remind anyone about the success of the 911 which, along with James Bond films, has endured as a true cultural icon that has evolved but still retains its perfect original form.

Form is an important concept to all designers. In 1972, Butzi founded Porsche Design and his first product was a wristwatch.

It's hard to believe that before 1972, there were no black watches, given today's ubiquity of PVD, DLC and ceramic timepieces. So when Porsche Design introduced an austere chronograph in a black steel case with black bracelet, it was a sensation. 40+ years later, the watch still looks remarkably contemporary with its utilitarian, almost severe, layout.

2011 2002 Dom Perignon Champagne

96 Points - The Wine Advocate

Winemaker's Notes

The first hints of fresh almond and harvest aromas immediately open up into preserved lemon and dried fruits, the whole rounded off by darker smoky and toasted qualities.

The presence of the wine on the palate is immediately captivating. Paradoxically concentrated yet creamy, it is energetic and warm in the mouth, focusing on the fruit, then gradually taking on more profound bass notes. The whole holds its note perfectly, intensively, with just a subtle, elegant hint of underlying bitterness.

96 Points - The Wine Advocate

"The 2002 Dom Perignon is at first intensely floral, with perfumed jasmine that dominates the bouquet. With time in the glass the wine gains richness as the flavors turn decidedly riper and almost tropical. Ripe apricots, passion fruit and peaches emerge from this flashy, opulent Dom Perignon. The wine's volume makes it approachable today, but readers in search of more complexity will want to cellar this for at least a few years to allow for some of the baby fat to drop off. Anticipated maturity: 2012-2032 "

2013 A Taste of Napa Valley

Five Bottles of Wine

This package includes five bottles of top-rated wine from Napa Valley:

2011 Caymus Vineyards Cabernet Sauvignon, Napa Valley - 92 Points, Wine Spectator

On the palate, this Cabernet is rich with sweet, ripe tannins, expanding to a greater breadth of refined textures. The flavor profile includes dark chocolate, sweet tobacco, mocha, leather, brown spice, cedar, vanilla and sweet licorice. The stand out qualities of this wine are its balance, supple texture, approachable grip and earthy notes.

2002 Twomey Merlot, Napa Valley - 94 Points, Wine Advocate

Even better than the 2001 is the 2002 Merlot, a blend of 99.4% Merlot and .6% Cabernet Franc. An exotic perfume of pepper, herbs, black cherries, plums, and raspberries is accompanied by an exciting texture, a plush, fleshy palate, and a concentrated, long heady, moderately tannic finish. This wine should improve over the next 2-3 years and last for 10-14. Very impressive! This is a top-flight single-vineyard wine aged completely in French oak, which is in total contrast to the wines made at Silver Oak.

2014 Groth Sauvignon Blanc, Napa Valley - 91 Points, Wine Enthusiast

This 2015 Sauvignon Blanc was produced from grapes grown in various microclimates of the Napa Valley. The warmer Napa Valley microclimates yield grapes that result in wines with a lush, full melon/citrus character in the aroma and in the flavor. The cooler areas of Napa Valley provide fruit with a solid, crisp backbone that gives the wine an exciting liveliness that balances the rich creaminess from "sur lie" aging.

Complemented by 9% Semillon, this concentrated, creamy young wine is generous in pear, peach and subtle pineapple. Tart, it remains fresh and focused in the glass, with a lushness that's memorable and compelling. An impactful finish wraps things up nicely.

2011 Freemark Abbey Chardonnay, Napa Valley - 90 Points, Wine Enthusiast

Sweet tangerine, tropical fruit and honey flavors mark this Chardonnay. It was wise on the winemaker's part to avoid the malolactic fermentation, because the fresh apple acidity livens up the richness. With a touch of buttered toast from new oak barrels, it's a savory wine to drink now.

2008 Clos du Val Pinot Noir Reserve, Napa Valley - 87 Points, Wine Enthusiast

This vintage of Carneros Pinot Noir is presented with a lovely ruby color. Aromatic spices awaken the nose with bright raspberry, red currant, and pomegranate. Rich complex layers of fruit and spice fill the mouth with notes of mature cherries. An elegant and lingering finish makes it perfect wine for food, but especially for enjoying by the glass. This Pinot Noir has great aging potential.

Sushi Workshop for Two People

Take a one-day sushi workshop for two people at Sushi Chef Institute in Torrance. Upon completion at SCI, we offer students job placement from our networks of chefs and restaurants all around the world.

Chef Andy Matsuda was born near Kobe, Japan, in 1956. When he was 9 years old, the family started a small Japanese restaurant, where he learned the joy of cooking. After graduating from high school, he began to work as an apprentice at Genpachi, one of the most famous restaurants in Osaka, for 5 years. He also became a member of a sushi chef organization called 'Yosei-kai'. At the age of 23, he returned to his hometown to help expand the family business. Once that was completed, at the age of 25, his new challenge in life was to move to Los Angeles, California.

5015 "Pray For Peace" by Munio Makuuchi

14.5" x 17" Matted Artwork

Munio Makuuchi (1934-2000)

Munio Makuuchi (born Howard Munio Takahashi) was a third-generation Japanese American born in Seattle. During World War II, he and his family were confined at the Minidoka concentration camp for Japanese Americans in southern Idaho. One of ten facilities built to incarcerate 120,000 Japanese Americans who had been living on the West Coast, the Minidoka camp housed some 9,000 men, women and children from Alaska, Oregon, and Washington. This forced relocation and pivotal childhood experience set the stage for a lifetime of visual and poetic works.

After the war and release from camp, his family settled permanently in Idaho. However, Makuuchi went to Concordia, a boys' Lutheran boarding school in Oregon.

At age 20, he changed his name from Takahashi to his mother's maiden name (Makuuchi) as his artistic name in protest against his father's "macho Hemingway samurai" negativity. In the late 1950s he enlisted in the army, where he suffered a head injury that friends believe was responsible for some of his erratic behavior as well as the often fragmentary and disjointed nature of his texts and images.

Makuuchi studied art education, printmaking, and painting. He earned a bachelor's degree in art education from the University of Colorado. He also earned two MFA degrees at the University of Iowa and the University of Wisconsin at Madison. He taught at the University of Wisconsin at Janesville and at Adeyemi College and the University of Ife, Nigeria, Africa, for a total of nine years. He retired from teaching and returned to Seattle in the mid-1980s.

He was known for his dark, large scale etchings, poetry and "aerogami" creations (elaborate folded and cut paper constructions of birds, planes and fabulous animals that fly). He produced more than 200 etchings with a technique called dry point, using a steel point to scratch designs onto a zinc or copper plate to create grooves that are filled with ink.

His work has appeared in various collections, including the Smithsonian American Art Museum, Elvehjem Museum of Art in Madison, the Rosenwald Collection at The National Gallery of Art, The Grunwald Graphic Center at UCLA, and the Portland Art Museum. Recently the Smith College Museum of Art in Massachusetts became the owner of one of the largest collections.

Because he often worked and reworked his plates, dating Makuuchi's prints can be difficult. He generally did not print editions, and he marked many of his prints "artist's proofs" or as part of a hypothetical edition of 32 that was never completed.

Makuuchi's experience of incarceration was clearly pivotal to his artistic and personal development; his art is replete with images of movement and symbols of Japanese American heritage. His premature death at 65 and his generally antiestablishment attitude have all worked against widespread recognition of his work until now.

5019 Carved Bird Pins by Sam Isamu Nagase

Isamu "Sam" Nagase was born on September 24, 1905, in Okayama, Japan. His family moved to America when he was a child, settling in Watsonville, California, in Santa Cruz County.

Sam lived in Watsonville with his family and younger brother, Satoshi "Bud" Nagase, until they were forced into the Japanese American concentration camp in Poston, Arizona, during World War II.

During their time in camp, many Japanese Americans produced artworks and crafts. One of the items they made were bird pins. They used pictures in the Audubon Bird Books as a guide for the carving and painting.

Sam Nagase was one of the incarcerated who took to carving bird pins out of reclaimed materials.

After the war, Sam eventually moved back to Northern California, settling in San Francisco. His bird pins were never sold, but eventually landed a place on display at the San Anselmo Little Library.

After retiring, Sam rekindled his love of carving and artistry, which he would do in his spare time, before his death on April 15, 2000.

5077 Shigaraki Vase

Kotobuki Trading's ceramics are produced in several different regions of Japan: Mino, Seto, Yokkaichi, Mashiko, Soma, Tokoname, Shigaraki, and Iga. Each area is represented by the traditions and innovations of select Japanese kilns, using raw materials, glazes, shapes and production methods which differ subtly and are often unique to these regions. Intertwined with Japan's history and culture, these ceramics are produced by skilled craftsmen, many of whom have obtained their expertise and technique through years of training.

The origin of Shigaraki-yaki (Shigaraki ware) started as roofing tiles ordered by the Emperor during the Nara period (710-794) in Shiga prefecture. During the Kamakura period (1192-1333) water jars and large pots were produced, followed by matcha chawan (tea bowls) and accessories associated with the Japanese tea ceremony. Today, ceramics for everyday use such as flower vases, tableware and ornaments are being produced in the Shigaraki area, taking advantage of the Shigaraki clay that is well suited for large pieces.

Shigaraki-yaki is recognized for both the quartz particles embedded in the local clay and the random reddish patterns naturally produced by a combination of the flames and the ash of the firewood coming into contact with the surface of the ware being fired. Although originally discovered by accident, this firing technique has become a lasting characteristic of Shigaraki-yaki.
